It takes a lot of will power to match some wives' won't power.

Instead of trying to get about, many people waste time trying to get even.

The mullets seem determined not to let their neighbors get a thing on them.

"Germany Stuns World"—Headline. Which seems to have become a habit.

A critic declares that the trouble with most looks that the covers are too far apart.

An editor writes in the utter uselessness of cursing. Yet it gave him the topic for a hot editorial.

Jewelers recommend that every man carry two watches. But the holding man would get them both.

It is said that in early times American Indians never kissed.
And they never made up, either except with war paint.

A loan company advertisement is headed, "A message to men and women who need money." In other words, a message to everybody.

The Philippines have rejected the independence offered by Congress, probably fearing it was the kind we have in the United States.

Why not give District of Columbia citizens the right to vote? As the case in other parts of the country, few would use it anyway.

Instead of committing hard-work, a discarded Japanese official now gives three cheers for the League of Nations and calmly avoids the end.

After fifteen years
11 the greatest war of history came to an end through an armistice between the Allied powers and the United States on the one hand and Germany on the other.

The historic document was signed in Marshal Pich's special train at Rheims, France, at 5 o'clock a.m., and provided for the cessation of hostilities six hours later.
Accordingly the fighting ceased at 11 a.m.

While the Armistice of November 11 marked the real termination of the war, it was the fourth of a series of rapidly moving events which brought the titanic struggle to a close.

Bulgaria has already surrendered unconditionally at Salonica on September 29; Turkey had surrendered at Mudros on October 31; and Austria-Hungary had surrendered at the headquarters of General Duce the Italian commander, on November 3. Left thus alone in the struggle, the defeat of Germany was inevitable.

In fact, Germany had appealed to President Wilson for peace on October 6, and the time between that date and the Armistice was taken up with diplomatic correspondence and the working out of the conditions submitted to Germany for acceptance.

These conditions left Germany absolutely shorn of all military and naval power which might enable her to take the offensive again.
Sighting of the treaty of peace followed on June 28, 1919, at Versailles, near Paris.

Since that time many additional treaties, pacts and agreements have been entered into by various nations.

Continued efforts to insure peace are being made by the world's leading statesmen, and upon the results of these efforts depend the most momentous consequences to the human race.

GOVERNMENTAL WASTE

In an interview by the late Senator Underwood of Alabama for release after that able statesman commented on the government's wasteful methods during the World War, of which his shipbuilding program was a striking example. Of this he said:

"The government decided to build its own ships, believing that the price of $80 a ton offered by the United States Steel Corporation was too high.

"Well, we had first to build yards, towns, planning, lighting, pavements, all living conveniences for thousands of employees.

"At last we got the actual building of ships. When we got into the yards had cost us, not $80 but from $250 to $300 a ton.

"This indictment of government wastefulness in industrial plants made, it should be remembered, by a Democrat who loyally supported President Wilson's war program in spite of the tragic waste of time and money which Senator Underwood was powerless to prevent.

The lesson to be drawn from this is: If you want something done in the most efficient and most expensive way, let some political agency do it. If you want it done quickly and economically, leave it to private initiative and private enterprise.

BETTER LIGHTING PAYS

Skimping lighting in industrial plants lowers production, increases spillage of materials and causes many accidents, according to the labor commissioner of New Jersey, who department has made an extensive study of the subject. Poor lighting also causes serious eye strain which further reduces the efficiency of the workers.

A concrete example is given by Mr. Weeks, in which the installation of a modern lighting system in a large industrial plant led to an increase of 12 to 16 per cent in production and reduced spoilage of material more than 50 per cent. It was also found that 15 per cent of industrial accidents in the state were caused by defective lighting arrangements.

Not only in factories, but in business houses, offices, schools, rooms and homes as well, good lighting pays in efficiency, comfort and improved eyesight. Its cost is trifling in comparison with the benefits it confers.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

The farmers of this section are to be pitied, they do not need to try to pity themselves. In fact, you cannot pity yourself without doing yourself an injustice. It is now time for us to rise up and meet existing conditions as they are today. We cannot beg out of this situation, we cannot borrow out of it, we cannot give out of it, we cannot grow out of it and we cannot curse out of it. There is only one way to get out of it and that is to work out by mature thought and deliberation supported and executed by honest hard work. Each farmer must work out his own salvation and it is high time for us to begin. I believe there is a way to do anything if you can only find the way. If your hands are not working, it is time for you to find some new plan. We cannot afford to toil on hoping for better days, as there are no better days in the near future. We must make our days better if they are to be better. About the first result a farmer will make to this effect is that he will be able to produce good crops, but that he cannot sell his products for a fair price. All of which is true with most farmers, but that is a complaint and not a remedy. The question is, how are you going to remedy the situation? I'll tell you my plan and I hope it will be worth something to you in making yours. First, I hope to reduce my business undertakings so there will be no borrowing or credit of any kind except what I let my hands have from my smokehouse or barn; second, I'm making my next crop at home and no man in Germany or South America will let me money for his fertilizer; and in the third place, I'm not going to try to make so much to sell my corn and sorghum patches. Nature is going to furnish my fertilizer for all my patches next year.
I expect to haul more than one hundred loads of nature-grown fertilizer before I begin planting next year. If all the farmers would do this we would be better off.

Now is the time for us all to begin on our fertilizer for next year. I have had my team in the swamps for two weeks hauling leaves, trash and muck for fertilizer. I have selected my time patch for next year and I'm getting it ready. I am fixing to get at my potato patch next. I'm going to raise things to eat and I'm not going to buy fertilizer to grow them with. When I make it there will not be any expense to pay out of what I produce. After I finish with my potato patch, I'll get on my corn and sorghum patches. Na-
izer for all my patches next year.
do this we would be better off.

I have had several inquiries lately about how to make soybean milk but I have not been able to answer them, as I did not have the recipe. I hope to have this recipe soon and will give it in detail just as soon as I have it. It will appear in one of our articles and I hope to give it to you within the next few issues. I did not realize that so many folks could not use cow's milk.

I'm having a great many inquiries about the depression and most folks want to know, above all other things, when it will end. I'm not a prophet, neither am I wise or smart, but I believe I know that the depression is not about to come to an end. It seems to me that we are now in the midst of it.
Many good things have been done to help conditions but temporary relief is all we have had so far.

We have not even touched on the cause and for that reason there is no cure in sight. If your tonsils are bad and give you rheumatism in your knee, you cannot cure the disease by doctoring the knee. You must relieve the situation by doing something for the tonsils. Now that is exactly what is going on with our financial world. We are not trying to relieve matters by giving immediate relief, but we are not trying to remove the cause.
Neither time nor space will permit me to tell you just why and how we came to our present condition but for argument's sake let us assume that we are not trying to relieve matters by giving immediate relief, but we are not trying to remove the cause. Neither time nor space will permit me to tell you just why and how we came to our present condition but for argu-ment's sake let us assume that we are not trying to relieve matters by giving immediate relief, but we are not trying to remove the cause.

FACING THE ENEMY

DESERVED by the people, Jesus for the first time in his public life, was again, and led him wondering but still dutiful disciple into the foreign cities of Tyre and Sidon. The journey gave him much to think about.

A chance to be alone with the twelve, and was, in a small way, a repetition of his earlier triumphs.

He hated to leave those kindly strangers. Much more he dreaded another trip thru Galilee. What a graveyard of high hopes it was! Everybody road, every street corner, almost every house and tree was alive with memories of his success. Now he must pass out into the open, conscious that he might be the last time, his heart swelled down with the thought of the interest on our debt. How can we work it out? The holders of securities are losing daily through foreclosure, the big corporations are failing, and things are gradually settling down, but we are not ready to do so much. "Wee unto you," he cried in his loneliness, "for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon they would have been long ago, in sackcloth and ashes."

So the spring and summer

For a long time there has been an annual percentage of ten cents a month in this country, as in the rest of the world. This has been pointed out that the purse-strings by those who are still employed and are able to buy has resulted in a depression of the

Fifteen years ago on November 11 the greatest war of history
came to an end through an armistice between the Allied powers and
and Germany on the other.

in Marshal Pich's special train
Accordingly the fighting ceased at 11 a.m.

While the Armistice of November 11 marked the real termination of the war, it was the fourth
struggle to a close.

Bulgaria has already surren-
dered unconditionally at Salonica on September 29; Turkey has surrendered at Mudros on October 31;
and Austria-Hungary has surrendered at the headquarters of Germany for acceptance.

Slashing of the treaty of peace followed on June 28, 1919, at Versailles, near Paris.

tions.

the human race.

release after that able statesman's death, the late Senator's wasteful methods during the World War, of which his ship-
example. Of this he said:

the price of $80 a ton offered by the United States Steel Corporation was too high.

for thousands of employees.

"At last we got to the actual
into the shipyard, we found that the government had made an ex-
efficiency of the workers.

A concrete example is given by
Mr. Weeks, in which the installa-
cent. It was also found that 15
lighting arrangements.

business houses, schools, hospitals and homes as well, poor
benefits it confers.

The farmers of this section are to be pitied, they do not need to try to pity themselves. In fact, you cannot pity yourself without doing yourself an injustice. It is now time for us to rise up and meet existing conditions as they are today. We cannot beg out of this situation, we cannot borrow out of it, we cannot give out of it, we cannot grow out of it and that is to work out by mature thought and deliberation supported and executed by honest hard work. Each farmer must work out his own salvation and it is high time for us to begin. I believe there is a way to do anything if you can only find the way. If your hands are not working, it is time for you to find some new plan. We cannot afford to toil on hoping for better days, as there are no better days in the near future. We must make our days better if they are to be better. About the first remedy a farmer will make to this is that he works hard enough and produces good crops, but that he cannot sell his products for a fair price. All of which is true with most farmers, but that is a complaint and not a remedy. The questions is, how are you going to remedy the situation? I'll tell you my plan and I hope it will be of some help to you in making yours. First, I hope to reduce my business undertakings so there will be no borrowing or credit of any kind except what I let my hands have from my smokehouse or barn. Second, I'm making my next crop at home and no man in Germany or South America will get my money for his fertilizer; and in the third place, I'm not going to try to make so much to sell. I'm already getting my fertilizer business started and by Spring I'll have about enough to get by on. If we cannot sell what we make, we should not try to make it, if there is expense attached to the making.

Now is the time for us all to begin on our fertilizer for next year. I have had my team in the swamps for two weeks hauling leaves, trash and muck for fertilizer. I have selected my time for next year and I'm getting it ready. I am fixing to get at my potato patch next. I'm fixing to raise things to eat and I'm not going to buy fertilizer to grow with. When I make it there will not be any expense to pay out of what I produce. After I finish with my potato patch, I'll get on my corn and sorghum patches. Nature is going to furnish my fertilizer for all my patches next year. I expect to haul more than one hundred loads of nature-grown fertilizer before I begin planting next year. If all the farmers would do this we would be better off.

I have had several inquiries lately about how to make soybean milk. But I have not been able to answer them, as I did not have the recipe. I hope to have this recipe soon and will give it in detail just as soon as I have it. It will appear in one of our articles and I hope to give it to you within the next few issues. I did not realize that so many folks could not use cow's milk.

I'm having a great many inquiries about the depression and most folks want to know, above all other things, when it will end. I'm not a prophet, neither am I wise or smart, but I believe I know that the depression is not about to come to an end. It seems to me that we are now in the midst of it. Many good things have been done to help conditions but temporary relief is all we have had so far. We have not even touched on the cause and for that reason there is no cure in sight. If your tonsils are bad and give you rheumatism in your knee, you cannot cure the disease by doctoring the knee. You must relieve the situation by doing something for the tonsils. Now that is exactly what is going on with our financial world. We are not trying to relieve matters by giving immediate relief, but we are not trying to remove the cause. Neither time nor space will permit me to tell you just why and how we came to our present condition but for argument's sake let us assume that we are there. Interest is the viper that is sucking the very life blood from our financial body. Our individuals, corporations, towns, cities, state and federal governments all owe enormous debts and all we produce is not sufficient to pay the interest. There is only about six billion dollars in circulation, while it takes about nine billion dollars annually to pay the interest on our debts. How can we work it out? The holders of securities are losing daily through foreclosures, the big corporations are failing, and things are gradually settling down, but we are not doing so much. "Wee unto you," he cried in his loneliness, "for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon they would have perished long ago, in sackcloth and ashes."

Next Week—Standing Alone.

BUY NOW!
Thrift is commendable; everyone who can should save something. But while extravagance is laudable, extravagance in hoarding is equally detrimental, leading to leading economies.
Unless this is done, the depression in this country, as in the rest of the world, is not likely to be over in thirty days. I mean that things would be getting better permanently. Unless this is done, I see no way out of our present situation and we must wait for the matter to remedy itself by a continuation of failures until the loads have been removed from the shoulders of our people. Under our present load, each family must pay an average of $1,000.00 per year for interest and taxes, or each person an average of $200.00. We cannot pay it and there is no use in, in teasing ourselves about the matter. I think it is time to face facts and they are, regardless of whether they look good or not. We have been kidding ourselves along for several years hoping that we might find a way out, but we do not find it and there seems to be no hope left of finding it. It might be to follow the old settlers remedy of removing a thorn, and that was to allow it to "rot out." Instead of taking it out with a knife. But I believe in operations when they are necessary and if I'm any judge of matters it is now time for an operation on our financial body. Are we going to sit idly by for the remainder of our lives and allow this situation to "rot out"? If it would do any good we might justify the trouble but it will not do good as the principle will also be lost. If something is not done, we are all getting older each year and some of us are too old to wait ten or twenty years for this thing to blow over.
I want it to pass during my life time. I would like to live a few more years after the depression is over and I realize that something must be done now or it will be too late for a lot of us. Unless the interest on these old debts is stopped the lender will lose both points, the interest and I believe it will be for all that he save the principal and that the borrower be relieved of the interest. A reasonable length of time could be given for the payment of the principal and all new debts should bear interest as if nothing had happened.

How much interest have you paid in your lifetime? How much interest are you paying this year?
How much of your tax money goes for interest? How much of your automobile tag tax goes for interest? How much of your water bill, light bill, insurance payments, etc., goes for interest? And after we pay all we can we have not paid all the interest and the amount is getting larger each year. The same thing is true of your town—if you live in town—of your county, your state and the nation. Where are we headed and what will be the result when we get there? Solomon said "The borrower is slave to the lender," and it now seems that we are all slaves, with our towns, counties, states and nation thrown in for good measure. What is the best thing to do about it?
What are you going to do about it? and when are you going to do it?
You might begin asking yourself some questions about this matter.

DIZZINESS
relieved by Black-Draught
"I decided to take Theodor's Black-Draught, as I had been having 'bilious spells,' writes Mr. Chas.
B. Stevens of Columbia, Ind. 'When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not want to work. I feel I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something.
After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I get dizzy.
That, to me, is a very bad feeling.' Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

passed, and autumn came, bringing the feast of the tabernacles, which he determined to celebrate in Jerusalem. It was a suicidal resolve.
The report of his dwindling influence had been carried to the Temple and Sidon. The journey gave him a chance to be alone with the twelve; and he was, in a small way, a repetition of his earlier triumphs.

He hated to leave these kindly strangers. Much more he dreaded another trip thru Galilee. What a graveyard of high hopes it was! Every road, every street corner, almost every house
that one again, conscious that it might be the last time, his heart
high purposes that had brought no response, and sacrifice seemingly in vain. Small wonders that he cried out against Chorazin and Bethsaida and even his own loved Caesarea, the cities for which he had done so much. "Wee unto you," he cried in his loneliness, "for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in
perished long ago, in sackcloth and ashes."

So they argued among themselves, and he went back once more into his Galilee.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

This letter is devoted to the much discussed subject of rates.

We have pointed out in recent advertisements that the cost of electricity did not follow the rising trend of commodity prices during the boom years, and that it is actually much lower now than it was before the war. Probably you have no more than a passing interest in this fact. What you want to know is whether the rates you are now paying are fair.

Rate comparisons between two electric operations are not fair unless the regard is given to such factors as area served, number of consumers per square mile, and character of territory (i. e., industrial or agricultural). You will therefore be interested in knowing that, although this company serves only 96,605 customers in the entire State of Alabama and that its investment per customer is therefore relatively great, it has the lowest state-wide residential rates in the country.

This company has always recognized the importance of low rates as a factor in industrial development, and in adding to the comfort and hours of leisure in the home. So far as our earnings will permit, we shall continue to work toward lower rates, so that more and more the people of Alabama can enjoy the full benefits of electric service.

Yours very truly,
The Alabama Power Company
President.

Letter No. 3.

Toll of the Earthquake
When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

War Veterans' Problems
Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering the veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 2,588 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families. The chapters also aided 7,346 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.

Safeguarding Public Health
The Red Cross reports that 693 nurses are employed by 428 of its chapters in public health nursing.
During the past year Red Cross nurses made 1,234,000 nursing visits, other than to schools, and also inspected 633,000 children in schools.
Nursing at the bedside of the sick, unemployed, or other needy is a major part of their work. The Public Health Nursing Service of the Red Cross also directs the teaching of classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This course was taught to 53,000 persons during last year.

Prepared to Save Lives
One of the most valuable services given to the American public by the Red Cross is through its Life Saving and First Aid courses. Virtually all of the life guards at beaches and pools in the nation are Red Cross life savers. Nearly every industry in America supports the First Aid work of the Red Cross because it annually saves lives of thousands of injured persons. These courses are taught by Red Cross experts in both lines. Last year 6,254 certificates were issued to persons completing the First Aid course and 78,795 certificates for completing Life Saving instruction.

many for acceptance.

lowed on June 28, 1919, at Versailles, near Paris.

tions.

the human race.

World War, of which his ship-
example. Of this he said:

the price of $80 a ton offered by
tion was too high.

for thousands of employees.

efficiency of the workers.

A concrete example is given by
Mr. Weeks, in which the installa-
cent. It was also found that 15
lighting arrangements.

business houses, schools, hospi-
benefits it confers.
